Tools Terra sauté pan

Tools Terra maintains all the elegant lines of the original Tools collection (designed by Stockholm-based Björn Dahlström in 1998), but has added modern features.

The inside of the pan is coated with a new, improved non-stick PTFE-coating for excellent frying performance. A traditionally inspired, copper-colored thick ceramic coating on the outer surface makes these Tools Terra pans look as great as they perform, and really easy to clean. With the pan's aluminium body, heat is spread evenly and efficiently, making for more culinary control. The collection is suitable for all types of hobs, including induction.

Tools Terra is available in: a 28cm frying pan, a 30cm sauté pan with lid and a wok. Mix and match it with the original steel Tools collection (which all remain available).

(The details: For best frying result we recommend always using a nutritional fat/grease. The pans are to be used with plastic or wooden utensils. Tools Terra products are oven safe up to maximum 250 c. Due to the large size of the pan, Iittala recommends hand washing for the Tools Terra series).

Björn Dahlström

The goal behind the commission for the Tools range was to create a premium-quality set of cookware making use of Iittala's latest production technology and representing a new standard in finish.

The Swedish designer Björn Dahlström successfully took on the challenge, and Phaidon Design Classics 999 describes the range as the best on the market: "The elegant range surpasses the expectations of the original brief, and is realized as a beautiful object."
